The Kindergarten carnival, at the home of Mrs. Cortland Van Camp yesterday afternoon, was one of the prettiest entertainments the society has given this season. Mrs. H. S. Tucker, Mrs. Sollis Runnels and Mrs. Van Camp received the company. Each member of the section wore a "fool's cap" of colored paper, silk or lace, with a frill of a different color, decorated with flowers or ribbons. In the library ices were served in hollyhock cups of crepe paper, a dainty receptacle and easy to hold. Candies were at a prettily arranged table in the hall, and fancy work in the second parlor. Here Miss Kathryn Cathcart played plano selections during the reception hours. In the dining room there were handsome decorations of ferns and pink carnations, and in the center of the table, where coffee was poured, was a large cut glass yase filled with pink roses and Bermuda lilles. The first course was "literary salad." This was green tissue paper, fashioned to look like lettuce, and attached to it was a conundrum. Mrs. W. H. Cook, who arranged it, used three hundred conundrums, no two alike. The salad also served as a refreshment favor. The carnival was attractive enough to have pleased many more than were present.

decide upon it. It was passed by a strict partisan vote, Dickson and Brown, the Democratic members, voting against its passage. The ordinance provides for three commissioners, who shall appoint not more than three police officers, whose salary is to be determined by the Council. It was expected that the commissioners would be elected last night, but by the time the first had been selected, it was 10:30, which is the hour for adjournment, and the election of the other two was postponed until next Monday night. There were three names placed in nomination for commissioner from the First ward. They were Charles Westover, Charles Lawrence and David Williamson, the latter receiving the place on the second ballot.

The Council also decided that notice should be served on the Moore Packing Company that if the company did not turn the refuse matter from their establishment into a covmatter from their establishment into a covered sewer within thirty days, that the city would bring suit against the company. It is asserted that the refuse matter has been flowing through a small stream which runs near the homes of some of the citizens of the suburb and that it is detrimental to their health.

AMUSEMENTS. Grand-"Daughters of Eve." Marie Weinwright's new play, that was admirably staged and acted at the Grand last night, furnishes cumulative evidence for the claim that humanity in general freely extends sympathy to the unfortunate and grudgingly gives the goody-goody ones their due. This is probably a wise provision in the great leveling process going on in nature. The story is that of twin sisters, both beautiful and gifted; one going to the bad, the other keeping in the straight and narrow way. It was inevitable from the first that Miss Wainwright's sympathies, as those of her audience, were with the sister who stumbles, and since she had the role of both in her hands, she easily won favor for the outcast and gave the upright one just enough of her splendid emotional power to make her the right sort of person. a bad woman acceptable. A bad man may reform and wear the crown of popular favor, but a bad woman reeks with her sin and the world will not have her. In the "Baughters of Eve" she commands something more than cold pity. She has the full consent of every one to better her condition if she can, but there is none to extend the saving hand. In this emergency the authors, A. E. Lancaster and Julian Magnus, come to her rescue and provide a retreat in a convenient nunnery. This is a compromise with the moral code and under existing social conditions it is the only alternative for women marked as was Rhoda Dainty. Rhoda discovered too late the awful penalty for doing wrong. She was aroused to this feeling by loving the man who loved her sister. Neither all the art of a woman skilled in voluptuous pleasure, nor all the praying of a woman who saw earthly happiness slipping from her grasp could avail her in winning the loval love of the one being for whom she It is no easy task for an actress to make who saw earthly happiness slipping from her grasp could avail her in winning the loyal love of the one being for whom she would have given her life. The conscience once aroused is then stricken with shame at this sin against her pure good sister. It has been the fashion with dramatists at this stage of the play to provide nepenthe in suicide for the tortured one, but the authors of "Daughters of Eve" have improved on Spakspeare and the poor girl resorts to a convent to atone for an evil life with one of good deeds.

Miss Walnwright very cleverly draws a distinction between the two sisters in her changes from one character to the other. Her methods are charming. The musical cadences of her voice are fascinating. There is not a clearer-toned or more pleasing reader on the American stage to-day. Her speaking voice unconsciously suggests reader on the American stage to-day. Her speaking voice unconsciously suggests music, and, indeed, Miss Wainwright early in her career trained for opera, and only fell into the drama when her talents seemed to excel in that line. Beautiful in face and figure, she is little less than a sensation in every one of the many becoming costumes used in the play. The piece abounds in fine dresses, which was noticeably a pleasure to the women in the audience. There are fourteen people in the supporting cast, and most of the parts were well acted, better, in fact, than much of the general support of stars seen in this city. Nathaniel Hartwig, Alfred Burnham, J. P. Keefe and Cecil Magnus, with Miss Kieln, Miss Northern and Miss Thornton, were worthy more than meagre mention in the support. Considering a bad night, the audience was good in numbers and flatteringly demonstrative. "Daughters of Eve" will continue at the Grand to-night and to-morrow night, with a matinee Wednesday.

Park-"The Two Johns." Two crowded houses tell, in brief, the story of the opening of the "Two Johns" engagement at the Park yesterday. J. C. Stewart, the original "Philip Johns," is at the head of the company, and together with Quinn Phillips, the other fat comedian, makes plenty of fun for the audiences. The ludicrous mishaps, mistaken identities and comicalities of the funny play are amusingly brought out. The quartet made a strong impression and was encored again and again. The other specialties are also good. The play will be repeated twice to-day and to-morrow. On Thursday "Hoss and Hoss" opens for a half week at the Park.

Empire-Peter Maher. The best act in the vaudeville entertainment given by the Peter Maher Specialty Company, which is at the Empire this week, is that of Lew C. Mettler, in his imitations of birds and animals. Farmyard fowl, wild birds and domestic animals are imitated vocally to perfection. The remainder of the show is fair. John T. and Lulu Keegan give a pleasing comedy performance; Frice and Mack do a clever acrobatic, black-face turn; and the Mayo brothers, one of whom is but a youngster, give character impersonations. Others of the company are Conley and Madden, Irish comedians; Miss Mae Rhea, vocalist, and Campbell and Beard in a musical act, in which tunes are extracted from old boots and the like. The performance concludes with an afterpiece entitled "McCracken's Reception," in which the Irish champion, Peter Maher, gives an exhibition of sparring for scientific points with Billy Hennessy, of Boston. To-night Peter Lowery, of Dublin, will meet Ed Shotski, of Shelby-ville. Wednesday evening Maher will meet George Porter, of this city, and Billy Hennessy will spar Charles Graf four rounds for scientific points. are imitated vocally to perfection. The

A REMARKABLE CURES

A Case of Piles of Eighteen Years'

Cared by the Pyramid Pile Cure.

There are plenty of pile cures which give es, but there is only one which can be depended upon with certainty to cure obstinate, long-standing cases, and that is the Pyramid Pile Cure.

Indorsements and testimonials are received daily from men and women whose integrity and reliability are above question. and in this connection a letter received from the Rev. Jas. H. Wesbrook, of Bowne, Mich., may be of interest to pile sufferers who have sought in vain for a cure. He says:

I have used the Pyramid Pile Cure, and I know that it is all that is claimed for I know that it is all that is claimed for it. I had been troubled with piles more or less for about eighteen years, and I had tried other remedies, but the piles grew worse until about ten months ago I used the Pyramid Pile Cure. It gave almost instant relief, and I have been free from piles ever since.—Rev. Jas. H. Wesbrook.

The remedy seems to act equally well in every form of piles, blind, bleeding, protruding or itching. It stops all pain almost immediately, allays irritation and removes constipation, and any one who has suffered the autoyance and pain of a rectal trouble will appraciate the excellent results which invariably follow the first application of the Pyramid.

THE SUNDAY QUESTION

THE SUNDA

The Lillian Russell engagement at English's next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is the greatest operatic event of the season here. The management claims she will be supported by the largest comic opera company ever seen here, and present "The Grand Duchess" and "La Perichole" as given at Abbey's Theater, New York, with the same costumes and scenery. The advance sale opens Thursday morning. There will be no matinee.

"A buyer from the country came to the window recently and said: 'Gimme two tickets for Sowzy's concert.' The next purchaser said, 'I want four tickets for the Soozy Band.' Another said "Sochas," another "Soozay,' and so on." The name is Spanish, Mr. Sousa being born of a Spanish father and a German mother, and his name is pronounced as if spelled "Soosah," with the accent equally divided between the two syllables. Sousa comes to English's Saturday night. Advance sale opens Thursday. "There are various ways of pronouncing

Congressman Henry Announces a Reform in This District-Competitive Examinations.

Hon. Charles L. Henry, Congressman from the Seventh congressional district under the recently displaced apportionment, but still the Representative in Congress of Marion, Madison and Hancock counties, announces that there will be a competitive examination in May of all young men who desire an appointment to West Point and will apply at as early a date as possible. Mr. Henry also says that he has been notified that if the young man nominated by Mr. Bynum for appointment as a cadet to the Annapolis Naval Academy should fail at his examination May 15 it will then become the duty of Mr. Henry to nominate a cadet to enter the academy in September, 1895. The course adopted by Mr. Henry throws the advantages of the government schools open to the youth who best proves his merit, and is a decided and agreeable change. It has never been Mr. Bynum's custom to hold a competitive examination for the place, which always went to some party or personal favorite. The education of a soldier or a naval cadet was in this way made to serve a party and a personal purpose. Mr. Henry's instructions from the departments of War and Navy at Washington are that the applicants for the places at West Point must be in July, 1896, between seventeen and twenty-two years of age, and for the naval cadetship befifteen and twenty years of age. tween fifteen and Mr. Henry says:

the Belabored the Woman Who Was Leading Her Daughter Astray.

Last night, during the performance at the Park Theater, considerable excitement was caused in the gallery by a colored woman who pushed her way to the front and began to belabor the head of a young colored woman with an umbrella which she carried. The young woman and a girl ran from the gallery and as they went down the stairs were the recipients of numerous well-directed blows from the umbrella in the hands of their pursuer, who kept close behind them. When they reached the street the girl started north on Capitol avenue with the woman in close pursuit. Nothing more was heard of them until they appeared at the police station later in the evening. The party consisted of an old colored woman, of the ante bellum type, a ored woman, of the ante bellum type, a woman of about thirty-five and a fourteenyear-old girl. The old woman related her story and declared that she wanted the child locked up over night and then sent to the Female Reformatory. She gave her name as Jennie Raymond, of 171 West Third street, and said that her daughter Zaelma has been running with Electric Louis, of 22 Willard street, and that she has been led into bad ways. She stated that she had found the two at the theater and related the manner in which she had dealt with the manner in which she had dealt with them, displaying a demolished umbrella as evidence. It was learned that the daughter has been an inmate of the reformatory and was out on a ticket of leave. She will be taken back to-day.

Ministers Have a Heated Argument. At the meeting of the ministers of the city in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday morning interesting papers were read by Rev. G. A. Carstensen and Rev. C. E. Dobbs, editor of the Indiana Baptist. During all of the discussion of the meeting no reference was made to the recent lecture of Colonel Ingersoil in this city. Mr. Dobbs, among other things, took occasion to refer to the religious works of Rev. Dr. Gordon. He intimated that the thoughts of that writer are not original. His opinion was responsible for a heated discussion between himself and Rev. Frank Hood, pastor of the East Washington-street Preshyterian Church, after the adjustment of pastor of the East Washington-street Pres-byterian Church, after the adjournment of the regular meeting. Mr. Hood is a friend of Dr. Gorden, and he took exception to what was said. Both gentlemen argued for some time, but neither became angry, although each was dreadfully in earnest.

Two Young Girls Arrested. Two young girls, Dolly Sturgiss, age seventeen, and Lizzie Farley, age fourteen, were arrested and taken to the police station last night. It is said that the older of the girls has been persuading the younger to visit the rooms of young men. The parents of the Farley girl have been unable to control her, and last night when she left home she was seen in the company of Dollie Sturgiss, and her parents had them both arrested.

The directors of the Indianapolis Baseball llub will hold a meeting this afternoon and letermine whether or not to attempt Sunday games. The sudden and pronounced stand taken by the ministers of the city in their pulpits last Sunday was something the directors hardly anticipated, and it may have some effect on their deliberations today. President Watkins and his ballplayers came home from Cincinnati last night, the game announced for yesterday having been abandoned on account of rain. Mr. Watkins is quite well satisfied with the outcome of the trip, which, as he said, convinced him that he had a better club than he was claiming. The Sunday game was a profitable one to the Indianapolis team, the club's satchel returning home with $800 more than it had when it went away. There were seven thousand people at the game, more than ever before attended an exhibition game in Cincinnati. All the Indianapolis players were fined yesterday, together with the Cincinnati players, for Sunday ballplaying, but the Queen City management paid this little extra expense. The Cincinnati team has had twenty days' practice in the South and had partly recovered from "that sore feeling" which makes life a burden to the professional ballplayer in the early rheumatic days of spring. The reports of the game sent out credited Newell with playing at short stop. Newell failed to arrive and Tommy White, an Indianapolis boy whom Wetkins has been developing, filled the position in a manner to make the manager's heart glad. He played a great game. Roat made a remarkable stop, but on account of lack of practice and the stiffness thereby entailed, was unable to push the ball to first base with sufficient swiftness. Even the spectators, miserly with favors as a Cincinnati crowd is wont to be when opponents make a brilliant play, applauded with much enthusiasm.

James Canavan, of the Cincinnati team, was released and immediately thereafter signed by Indianapolis. He is a strong man at second base, where he will be placed with the Indianapolis team. His record in the outfield of the Cincinnati team was a good one. In one hundred games played he had a batting average of .293. He will report here this evening, but will not play until to-morrow. with playing at short stop. Newell failed

FIGHT WITH THEIR MOUTHS. Peter Maher Shanes the Popular View of Corbett-Fitzsimmons Mill.

Peter Maher, the Irish pugilist, now appearing at the Empire, was asked, last night, for his opinion of the talked-of Corett-Fitzsimmons fight. He said: bett-Fitzsimmons fight. He said:

"They are not going to fight, according to my opinion. They don't want to fight. They got up a match and then both commenced traveling around the country making money out of it. If a man wants to fight, do you think he is going to be four years making ready for it? Not much. I noticed that when I wanted a fight I could get it, without putting it off and making so much fuss about it. They may fight, but I don't think they will."

Of the McAuliffe-Griffo match. Maher thinks Griffo will win, unless McAuliffe comes to his senses and begins to take care of himself. Maher has a fight with O'Donnell, at New York, in May, and he claims to be in condition for it.

thousand people saw the fourth Arkansas Derby won to-day by the Pastime stables' chestnut gelding Laureate. The day was bright and warm, and the track, while not fast, was good. Nine starters faced the flag for the Derby. At the second attempt they got off in a perfect line and raced in a bunch to the first quarter. In making the turn Bob Clampett was caught in a pocket and had to go around the bunch. Lobengula led by a length, with Glad, Pepper, Laureate and El Capitan well up and the others in a bunch until the last turn, where Lobengula increased his lead to two lengths. In the last turn Clampett came out of the rear bunch and challenged the leader, but Knapp, Berger, Graham, Weber and Noble went to their ham, Weber and Noble went to their whips. A hundred yards from the wire Lonnie Clayton, on the favorite, called on his mount, who responded with a great burst of speed and drew out, winning handily by an open length. Tob. Lobengula and Bob Clampett made a desperate finish for the place, the Morris colt getting the decision by a scant half length. Clampett ran a great race, and but for his disadvantage at the quarter turn might have won the race. The victory was a popular one, and the crowd went wild with enthusiasm for both horse and rider. Sixteen "Bookles" at St. Asaph. WASHINGTON, D. C., April L-The attendance at the St. Asaph track to-day was fully up to the average. Sixteen bookmakers went on and managed to break even with the talent. Three favorites and as many outsiders got the money. Watchman was the good thing of the day, he being played from 8 down to 3 to 1, and winning in a gallop. J. J. McCafferty role his horse Applegate in the last event, and was greeted with cheers when he went

20-to-1 Shot Won. SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.-Now that most of the plungers have gone East, the small fry have no one to follow. To-day they broke about even, but received a hard blow in the last race, when Contribution, 8 to 5, was beaten by Mainstay. Ricardo, at 29 to 1, in the fifth race, was a big surprise.

TWEED'S FAMOUS CLUB HOUSE. Gold Coins in the Mortar, the Flagpole and the Carpet. New York Sun.

Mr. E. C. Benedict's negotiations for the purchase of the Indian Harbor Hotel property at Greenwich, Conn., have recalled many stories about the American Club and William M. Tweed. Among William M. Tweed's nearest friends it was known that two men used to accompany him almost everywhere as a sort of body guard. Tweed always had a horror of being stabbed and a feeling that some enemy was awaiting ar opportunity to thrust a knife into his ab domen. These men were instructed to protect him, one on each side, and, in walking in a crowd, to keep a few paces in front of him. One of these men was an oysterman, whose home was in Greenwich, and he was not only Tweed's faithful friend, but was not only Tweed's faithful friend, but his valet as well. He died not long ago.

Not many of the guests who have wandered through the drawing room of the Indian Harbor Hotel in the last twenty-four years have known the history of the wonderful carpet beneath their feet, and yet it is so famous that men interested in the production of such fabrics have traveled hundreds of miles to examine it. It was made in Brussels in 1870. It was one entire piece, and the loom upon which it was weven had to be made expressly for its manufacture. With all the pounding and thumping and dancing of the multitudes that for nearly a quarter of a century have that for nearly a quarter of a century have used it, it is still bright and thick. There was a good deal of task about this carpet was a good deal of task about this carpet in the palmy days of the Tweed Ring, and some members of the club did not agree with Tweed about the purchase of so expensive a floor covering. It was only Tweed's persistence and the carelessness with which he spent money that finally settled the matter. Monday's Local Observations.

It is said that this beautifully-woven carpet has never been taken off the floor, and that it lies just as it was originally tacked down in the spring of 1871. It cost a great deal of money and the import duty on it was very large. No one but Tweed really knew what it did cost, except, perhaps, his secretary, Charles Hall, and probably he will never tell. The nap still gives beneath one's feet. And the colors are as fresh and bright as when Tweed and his satellites made the room ring with merriment and sipped champagne beneath the glitter of the great chandeliers. At the corners of the carpet are tiger heads, and underneath one can still plainly read the letters "A. C."

It was a queer freak that the club men letters "A. C."

It was a queer freak that the club men had of touching everything with gold. Every new boat that was launched had its golden rivet, and at the laying of the corner-stone of the clubhouse a peck basketful of gold and silver coins were buried in the mortar. Some search may be made for these coins. The club flagpole had a gold eagle nalled upon its apex, and the knobs of the lockers of the yacht Mary Jane Tweed were decorated with quarter eagles. The yacht also had a gold eagle at her topmast. This was Tweed's favorite craft, and she often came bowling along toward home with Field Point on the lee shore, the gold at her topmast reflecting the sunlight with bright flashes.

'My reason for becoming a clown,' said Miss Williams, the only lady clown on earth, according to the circus bills, "was to make money. My father was a clown for forty years. He was with the Barnum & Balley show in this country for nearly twenty years. He had twenty-one children, and all of them were in this business in some capacity or other, generally as acrobats and tumblers. My three brothers were clowns, and they used to come to me for ideas. I was not suited for an acrobat. It is too hard work. I thought that I would become a clown myself and make use of the suggestions I used to furnish them. There are twelve of our family now in the There are twelve of our family now in the circus business Father has retired. He keeps a little public house near London. "I believe that a woman can do anything for a living that a man can do, and do it just as well as a man. All my people laughed at me when I told them that I was going into the ring as a clown. But they do not laugh now, when they see that I can keep in an ergagement all the time and earn as much or more money than they can in other branches of the business. I am paid for my liteas. Every day I try to think out something new, and the management usually gives me pretty wide latitude.

"My first engagement was with an English circus in the provinces. I made a hit, and managed to get into the Hippodrome in Paris, I was there two years. Then I went back to London and did pantomime work. But I like circus work best. The chief difficuity is in making myself heard. But, then, nobody ever listens to what a clown says. Everything depends on the antics. I am a fair tumbler and manage to get along all right. I shall probably stop in this business until I get married. Of course, I hope to get married some day. Every woman does. But I do not believe in women sticking to the business after they are married, though the rule in a circus seems to be just the reverse. These bareback riders and trapeze artists all have husbands or brothers about the building somewhere. That is why estandard of morality in the circus is far better than it is in the theater. That is a fact."

Miss Williams is a rather undersized woman, about twenty-five years old, with an abundance of health and energy. She rides a bicycle, swings Indian clubs, and does everything else that a man does to keep herself in proper trim. One of her favorite tricks as a clown is to put on a bonnet and a long cloas, and then sit by some innocent young man in the audience. In nine cases out of ten he is very much preoccupied in the performance and does not pay any attention to her. Suddenly she astonishes him by shouting to the ringmaster for a job. He takes ishes him by shouting to the ringmaster for a job. He takes the cue and begins to dicker with her.

"How much will you give me?"

"Ten dollars a performance." no. This young man here that I am engaged to will give me more than that to stop here with him.' (Great confusion of the young man referred to if he does not the young man referred to if he does not grasp the situation.)

Finally the cloak and bonnet are tossed aside and the lady clown leaps into the ring. This trick worked very successfully the other night. The men in the clown business rather enjoy Miss Williams's antics, but they do not regard her as a serious competitor or believe that any other women are likely to follow her example.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 1.—The council of the Baptist Church met yesterday and an-nounced the result of its findings in the case of Rev. C. C. Marston, who was charged with adultery and falsehood. Mars-ton deserted a wife in Washington State and took up with a Mrs. French, with whom he is traveling in Iowa as his wife, while he delivers lectures on "Temperance" and "Purity and Chastity of the Home." Mars-ton was expelled and the church asked to revoke his ordination.

Industrial Home for the Blind. To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: Among the many benevolent institutions now existing in Indiana there is no place where indigent blind men may go and earn by honest toil their daily bread, a privilege all noble minded people guard with jealous care, and the loss of sight does not destroy innate principles. But when these unfortunates have neither money nor business ability, what are they to do? The consequence is they select some of the numerous methods practiced by their class for soliciting alms, or else go to the county infirmary. In order to prevent, at least to considerable extent, such retrogression, several States east of Indiana have insti-tuted industrial homes for the blind who are willing to work. Your correspondent has it from good authority that these homes have been successful beyond the ex-pectations of their philanthropic founders, Mr. Mardoff, who has been until recently Mr. Mardoff, who has been until recently connected with the home at Iberia, O., informs me of its excellent work, and as he is now engaged in instituting a similar home for the blind of Indiana it is sincerely hoped his every effort may be crowned with success.

a family, can often be traced by the lines in the woman's face. Dull eyes, the sallow or wrinkled face and those "feelings of weakness" have their rise in the derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. The functional derangements, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of women, can be cured with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For the young girl just entering womanhood, for the mother and those about to become mothers, and later in "the change of life," the "Prescription" is just what they need; it aids nature in preparing the system for the change. It's a medicine prescribed for thirty years, in the diseases of women, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure the chronic inflammation of the lining membranes which cause such exhausting drains upon the system.
